A Terri Lee from Beyond

By Pat Rather

Does a person's need to collect come from some unfulfilled childhood longing? Does it come from some bit of undigested past? These are the reasons I collected. It has taken me years of reflection to understand my obsession and be able to think calmly about it. My search for the perfect Terri Lee was rooted in an imperfect bonding with my mother. It has been my unconscious quest to repair a flawed relationship through collection, which, I believed, could recapture the past and replace what I had lost.

As a matter of fact, for many years I had no idea that anything was missing. Then later in life and long after my mother's death, I had a daughter. One holiday season, she asked for a certain doll and memories of Terri Lee flooded back. I remembered asking Santa for Terri, getting Sweet Sue instead, throwing a tantrum, being banished from the festivities. I remembered my birthday Feb., 1952 & the honey-haired Patent Pending I received. I remembered, Terri, moldy and in pieces, gone when we broke up my mother's household. Why hadn't I taken better care of her? I needed her now! Why hadn't I appreciated my mother more sincerely? I needed her now. How could I have so dreadfully undervalued her when she was alive? I felt a stab of panic, a horrible, heartsick feeling. It was too late. I was guilty. How could I be forgiven? How could I atone?

My collecting zeal was immediate and overpowering, an escape. My husband was aghast: "A Terri Lee widower" was how he put it. I found my first Terri at the Vallejo Doll Show. She was exactly like the one I'd lost, honey-haired, Patent Pending, soulful. Ever a thorough person, I read every book, paper, pamphlet, went to every show, met every collector, photographed every doll, studied every detail, bought everything possible. Then slowly, I realized there was more to collecting than dragging pieces of TerriLeeLand back to my house. Collecting was character building! I started getting some lessons in patience, tact, doll dealing, being deathly disappointed and bouncing back.

I became a "member" of the Terri Lee Friendship Club. Through collecting I've met wonderful people, been a guest in their homes, traveled the US, known the exhilaration of the hunt. And collecting has changed me—although not much! I'm probably a better mother for having played with dolls; a better woman for having formed doll bonds with other women; a better person for having had to share. In the beginning, I'd thought I needed to recapture the past and replace something lost. Actually, I needed to accept the present, accept myself and grow up.

One day the UPS truck stopped in front of the house. It was February 16th, my birthday. A doll, which I'd unexpectedly had the opportunity to buy sight-unseen over the phone, had arrived exactly on my birthday! What was she going to be like? I took the box inside and opened it. Beneath the packing carton was a yellow Lincoln box. Its label, written in old-fashioned cursive, read "Heart Fund Valentine." I opened the box with trembling hands. A Lincoln, "Fashion Parade" lay on the bottom. The doll's legs were still tied in place with the little white cord, the head held by a cardboard support. I took off the yellowed tissue paper... The doll staring back at me was "my" doll: honey-blond, patent pending, 1952 Heart Fund, soulful. A small red plastic heart was tied to her arm. It told me, "I LOVE YOU." "This," I thought, "is a doll from beyond the grave!"

Riding Costume

By Terry Bukowski
February 2019

Sandy Dorsey did a wonderful article which appeared in the November 2017 Daisy Chain Newsletter titled Gene Autry goes from Rodeo to Roundup. Going back to 2001 Pat Rather created the “Let’s Go Western” for the 2007 Oklahoma convention. After rereading these articles I felt it was time we took a look at the other costumes offered that were called Riding Costumes. Starting the research in the Fashion Parades I was surprised how far back Terri in Riding Costume goes back. It was first offered in the Number 1 Lincoln Nebraska Fashion Parade magazine of 1948. Terri is offered in her Riding Costume BUT wait! Isn’t that our jodhpur outfit?

GENE AUTRY and TERRI
Our newest friend is Gene Autry. I don't need to tell you who he is! Jerri adores him as the hardest riding, two-gun, rootin' tootin' cowboy on screen or radio. I adore him for his singing guitar and voice that weaves a spell of moonbeams and magic.
TERRI
I'm happy to join the circle of Terri's and Jerri's friends, and I know that together we'll make this into an endless and lasting circle. Champ and I send our regards from the Flying A Ranch.

READY FOR THE PONIES

Sometimes I get a chance to ride a pony that belongs to a friend of mine. The pony is always happier when I wear my riding costume, for we make a very smart appearance trotting down the lane. The colorful nailheads and white boots, and leather belt set off my costume and of course a sombrero to make it complete. When Jerri and I ride together, he wears Gene Autry jeans and shirt with all the fixings.

1086 Terri, Riding Costume only

4087 Gene Autry Costume only

FB#1 does not specifically name the outfit, it is not until Fashion Parade #2 that a name to Terri's costume is uniquely identified. Fashion Parade #2 from 1949 calls it her Riding Costume. The companion price list for outfit #60 defines it as Terri in riding costume, trimmed with iridescent nail heads, cowgirl boots and hat $19.00 ea.

#1086 costume only is defined as Riding costume, jodhpurs, shirt, belt studded with nail heads, cowgirl

boots and hat $8.00 ea. This costume for Terri is offered from 1948 – 1951.

Questions... 1) on the first riding costume why did it only last three years? 2) Too costly to make? 3) Not a favorite with Little Mothers? Since most of the costumes came in tan, beige, or taupe colors it may not have been really appealing when you think of all the pretty colors used in Terri's costumes. Following this article is a reprint of Mary Weaver's article on "Jodhpur" /Riding Costumes that was in the December 2013 Daisy Chain Newsletter. One thing I have noticed - ALL the Jodhpur/Riding Costumes I have seen should be on a Terri since the shirt closes to the right. Keep this important fact in your mind: Terri's shirts close to the right.

In 1952 the Riding costume would have a makeover.

- ❖ The tie around Terri & Jerri's neck. Of course none of my outfits came with the neck tie which looks to be the same as her hair ribbons.

In the 1952 Fashion Parade the riding costume is now looking like the riding costume I was thinking of when I decided to write this article. Terri is seen in a stripe red & white shirt, red pants with white piping that goes up the leg, white cowgirl boots with brown tooled leather belt and of course there would be a

- ❖ Look closely at Terri in the above factory photo - her shirt snaps to the left –Same as Jerri's!
- ❖ Notice Jerri next to Terri in the 1952 FP photo, his outfit is called Roundup, same shirt only he wears jeans instead of the pants with the white piping.

All but one of the riding costumes I have purchased, have been on Jerri's, all the shirts close to the left, and Jerri came with white boots on. Boy's shirts close to the left, Girls shirts close to the right. My thoughts on the shirt is the sewers were given just the shirts to sew, they had no way of knowing if the shirt would be for Terri or Jerri.

LET'S GO WESTERN!

Yippee! Ride 'em, Cowboy! Look at us all dressed up like real Westerners! I'm wearing my pretty Riding Costume with the big sombrero hat and white boots, and Jerri is shown in three of his Cowboy Outfits. First, the Denim Outfit with gun belt even, and then you see him in two of his real Gene Autry Costumes—the Gene Autry Denims and Rodeo Outfits! He looks very nice in his shiny shirt and autographed pants, and the leather embossed belt that comes with the Rodeo costume. We feel so dressed-up in these!

This 1954 Fashion Parade has Terri pictured in a pretty print shirt, matching pants with piping and her white boots, which in all the Fashion Parades are on the outside of her pants. The contrast of the boots are shown off nicely with the colored pants. The costume including the boots and hat only cost $3.95. We've seen this print shirt in both green on white and red on white.

Mr. Alex Kahler is credited for the leather belts from 1950 – 1957.

LET'S GO WESTERN!

Yippee! Ride 'em Cowboy! Look at us all dressed up like real Westerners! My Cowgirl outfit on the left is made of soft leather, and is very dressy with lots of fringe. Doesn't it look nice, with the big Sombrero and white boots? And on the right I'm wearing my Riding Costume with its gay, striped western pants. And Jerri is shown in two of his cowboy outfits. They are both real Gene Autry outfits. On the Roundup costume he has a gun belt, even, and he looks very nice in the shiny shirt and with the leather embossed belt that comes with the Rodeo costume. We feel so dressed up in these!

I've only found one shirt in red that closes to the right, the correct closing for a girl's shirt. What is interesting is I have a Terri in jeans, does this make her wearing a Roundup Costume?

Roundups are described as "with jeans".

On this and the next page are several of the Riding Costumes found – all for Jerri because the shirt closers are to the left. But are they? Does the shirt make the outfit?

If I draw any conclusions from the factory photos it is that the pants with piping go with Riding Costumes. Unless it is the matching piped pants (pink or purple) that go with the Gene Autry TL and JL outfits. When I started this research I thought all of the piped pants were for Jerri because of the boy closure shirts...but the factory literature does not present the Riding outfit with piped pants as being for Jerri. All of the photos show them on Terri's. Riding outfits, Rodeo outfits and Roundup outfits, it's all so confusing.

In review of the Fashion Parades and monthly booklets:

1948 – 1951 Terri in Riding Jodphurs

1952 Terri in Riding O/F is with piped pants

1952 Jerri in Roundup O/F is in Jeans

1953 Gene Autry signature Terri Costume

1953 Gene Autry signature Jerri Costume

1954 Terri in Riding O/F is with piped pants

1954 Jerri is in either Rodeo or Roundup

1954 Gene Autry signature Terri in Rodeo O/F

1954 Gene Autry signature Jerri in Rodeo O/F, white boots

1954 Gene Autry Jerri Denims O/F

1955 Jerri Roundup denim suit

1956 Terri in Riding O/F is again with piped pants – striped print

1956 Gene Autry Jerri Roundup jeans

1956 Gene Autry Jerri Rodeo striped print pants and white boots.

1957 Terri Riding O/F striped pants

So many colors with shirts that match the pants and in some cases the hat. Per the factory photos Jerri wore white boots if it was a Gene Autry signature O/F or a Gene Autry striped pant Rodeo outfit. I think that because the Terri cowgirl was so popular and that the number of white boots made were more than the brown boots that Jerri can wear them as well.

Determining if the outfit is a Riding outfit, a Rodeo Outfit or Roundup outfit is still confusing. Any way you look at it Jerri is more than handsome in his Riding Costume.

JODHPUR UPDATE

by Mary Weaver

Since the 2012 Daisy Chain Convention in Ft. Worth, I have discovered more information on the Terri Lee Jodhpur. This article will serve as an update on that outfit. The more we know about Terri Lee, the more we realize we don't know anything! I recently added another Jodhpur doll to my collection. She completely nullifies a lot of assumptions I have made in the past. First of all, it's red! After researching this outfit for many years, this is quite a revelation! The majority of outfits we have found have been in the tan, beige, taupe family of colors. A couple of exceptions have been found, one brown outfit and 2 gray variations. This latest find has red jodhpurs and a plaid shirt. The other variation is the belt. Previously, the belts have been either brown/tan leather with a belt buckle or a belt that we have coined the self belt as it is made from the same fabric as the pants, snaps in front with a donut snap and has studs around the belt. The belt with this outfit is made like the self belt but is white leather. Again snapping in front with the donut snap and studded with green studs all the way around the belt. Another difference is there is stitching up the front and back leg, simulating a "crease" in the pants. This can be found on other early outfits, i.e. pedal pushers, snowsuit, etc. I also noted that the fabric used in the red jodhpurs and the plaid shirt is more a linen-like fabric as opposed to the Rayon Poplin and the Cotton Poplin used in ones we have seen before. The doll wearing the red Jodhpur is the painted plastic with the side glancing eyes and she is wearing the white boots with the heels attached which is common to the Jodhpur outfit.

I found only one factory photograph showing the "crease" stitching on the Jodhpur and that was the 1948 TOYS AND NOVELITIES magazine. So far all the jodhpurs in Little Mother's collections have not had the crease stitching. This leads me to believe that a decision was made after the initial creation of the Jodhpur outfit to eliminate that extra "crease" stitching, making it simpler to sew and that the cloth self belt was more economical than a leather studded belt. Let's keep our eyes alert for another jodhpur for Terri Lee like this. If you have one in your collection that we are not aware of, please contact me. I am always looking for more jodhpur information. I have included some photographs of the different jodhpur fabric used. The picture to the right is from the 1948 Toy Review. Note the leg seam.

Terri Lee Costumes and Dolls

One of the many new costumes for which Terri Lee dolls are famous, authentic in every detail, the riding outfit is shown here. It is complete with an iridescent jeweled belt and the jewel-trimmed shirt is made of beautiful rayon poplin. A felt cowgirl hat and white riding boots, which are included, add the final touches to the outfit.

This is the 1948 version of the jodhpur, sewn out of a linen-like material. If you look closely, you can see the “crease” sewn in the front center of each leg. That same type topstitching appears on the back of the pants. This color is certainly unique as well as the use of a plaid shirt. Notice the white belt which is made of leather with that center donut snap and the green studs around the belt. The boots should have a heel attached. This is a painted plastic doll with side-glancing eyes and the mannequin wig. This is from the collection of Mary Weaver.

This outfit is made of what I consider to be the most common material, rayon/poplin. The light tan/taupe color is also the most common. The colors are often switched in that the main outfit is darker and the cuffs and yoke are lighter. This one comes MIB with a leather belt and fairly big buckle. The boots again have the heel. This is a painted plastic but does not have the mannequin wig. This is from the collection of Mary Weaver

This wonderful brown colored jodhpur is yet a different fabric. It is a cotton/poplin and has a self belt. If you look in the Lincoln Fashion Parade, this brown shirt is shown on page 10 on the Jerri standing next to Terri in the jodhpur or "riding costume". That Jerri is called "Jerri in Gene Autry Costume". Notice this doll is wearing the Gene Autry boots. Looks appropriate to me! Collection of Dennis Ross.

The doll on the left of this photograph is wearing yet another color and material type than we have seen above. The pants and shirt on this doll are made of different fabric, the pants being a gray with kind of a ribbed feel to the fabric which is cotton. The shirt is a plain weave probably the cotton/poplin again. This out was found at the same doll show but in different boxes. Could be there was a shirt exactly matching the pants. And, maybe a pair of plain gray jodhpur pants too. Notice the hot pink piping on the shirt and cuff. There is that leather belt again. The beige on the right is the rayon/poplin that we see more often. Collection of Sandy Dorsey

Riding Outfits – Why the Boy Shirts?

By Glenda Kitto

Historically speaking it was taboo for girls to wear pants. Even in the early 1950's most girls wore dresses. The beatnik / bikini era changed that fast. The sexy slim legged Capri pants, crop-top blouses and women working brought around a revolution in women's fashions. We see that in the example of Terri's Riding Outfit. I can recall always wanting to do what my 3 brothers did. We as a family camped, fished and were an outdoors family. I wore jeans, not just any jeans but Levis, Boys Levis. At the time Levis did not make a girls style. Levis worn with large rolled cuffs to the calves. We were cool!

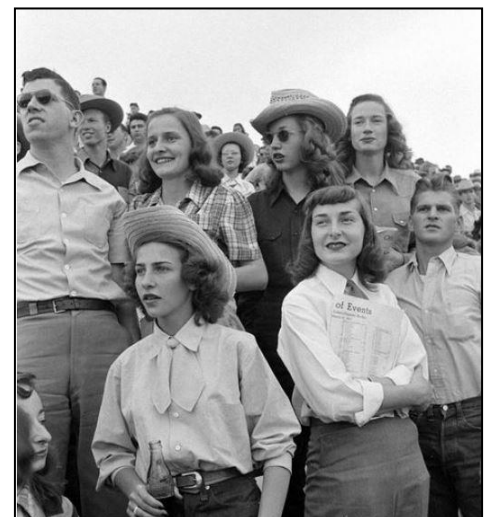

Early 1950s, Teens in Jeans and Sloppy Tops

In my pre-teen years I wanted to be a cowgirl. Our neighbors had horses and I mucked the stalls which entitled me to ride. After reading Terry Bukowski's article on the Riding Outfit and that most of Terri's western cotton shirts were boy's shirts I began looking at why this was. My own childhood photos of me in a western shirt were in boys shirts. The internet also showed most girls wearing boy's shirts except for those lucky enough to have a custom made rodeo shirt. The Levi advertisements from the 1940 have shown western shirts for women in boy-front shirts. It was not until the mid '50's that girl shirts came into vogue.

Advertising images from the 1940s, courtesy of Levi's®

All of the photos on this page show girls in boy front shirts.

I also located another statement made about girls wearing Jeans and with the help of James Dean and Marilyn Monroe the Rebel industry rolled into our lives.

REBEL, REBEL

During the 1950s, Levi's jeans also became a symbol of youth and rebellion, thanks in part to iconic denim looks of television and movie "bad boys" like James Dean in Rebel Without a Cause (1955), Marlon Brando in The Wild One (1953) and Elvis Presley, who was drawing plenty of attention to his jeans through his infamous hip-shaking. The media portrayal of rebellious young people wearing jeans shifted Levi's away from wholesome territory and even led to some schools to ban denim in classrooms. Of course, telling young men (and women) that they couldn't wear jeans only made them more desirable, and soon they became the most coveted item in an American teenager's wardrobe. Levi's got a whole new look when Marilyn Monroe wore them in the film Clash by Night (1952) and later in The Misfits (1961), which was possibly the first time in popular culture that jeans were seen as having sex appeal for women. Part of that appeal was based on the fact that women were appropriating a garment that had originally been intended for male labor. Jeans on a female body signified power, rebellion, and strength—what's sexier than that?

Terri Collectors of the world...We made this happen, we made history, our doll was proof once again that as the Queen of Fashion she was also a rebel in disguise!

The search was to begin. Terry B. did not have a boxed Riding outfit. We needed to know what this mystery about Terri's Riding Outfit was all about. What happened to all the girl cotton shirts. I searched my stores of MIB outfits. Not a Riding Outfit box to be found. I reached out to both Dennis Ross and Sandy Dorsey and I won the jackpot! Sandy had a MIB Riding Outfit. Carousel box, correct label we knew we now had proof!

OH NO! Thinking it would contain a girl's shirt, it did not! It was a cotton boy's shirt!

Terri, just like all the Little Mothers of the early '50's wore boy western shirts. The Terri Lee advertisements for the Riding Outfit's indicate it is a TL outfit not a JL outfit. So just like all the girls in the early '50s Terri stole her brother's shirts so she could ride the range. Now if only Dennis could come up with a MIB outfit as well. He did not but he did discover that in that vast collection of Terri's that stand tall in his many displays he had just two Terri Western Cotton Shirts: a solid red like the one in Terry Bukowski's article and a red and yellow plaid shown here.

There must be more GIRL'S COTTON WESTERN SHIRTS in all of our collections. If you have one send me a photo please: gkittoco@roadrunner.com

It is my opinion that this is a rarity!

The percentage of GIRL'S COTTON WESTERN SHIRTS made is very low based upon the number of them found in the collections of Terry Bukowski, Dennis Ross, Sandy Dorsey and Glenda Kitto. We love the fine details of collecting.

Remember... Keep this important fact in mind: Terri's shirts close to the right.

Dealer Communications

By Glenda Kitto

How do we know so much about of Fashionable Terri Lee? The Terri Lee Company is a case study on how to reach the public. In the near 30-years of writing about Terri Lee we have uncovered box-car-loads of original factory documentation that has laid the foundation of our Terri Lee knowledge.

To the "Little Mothers and Little Fathers" we have the Monthly Booklets, Birthday Cards, Fashion Parades and Newspaper advertisements.

To the stores selling Terri Lee Dolls and Fashions we have:

- ♥ Letters to Dealers
- ♥ Dealer Sell sheets – Featured Terri Lee Dolls and Fashions
- ♥ Dealer Price Lists
- ♥ Advertising Brochures like "Presenting Terri Lee"
- ♥ Original glossy factory photographs

From actual Retailers we have store photographs and their newspaper advertisements ...And of course the Daisy Chain's Accessory Book where we have gathered information on "similar" items: Hand Held, Hats, Shoes, Western, Patti-Jo, Lincoln, Apple Valley, Furniture, Advertisement, etc.

From these Factory original source documents we know which pair of shoes or hats are recommended for each outfit. We know which shirts and blouses go with a skirt or pair of pants. We know when a fashion was introduced and when it was taken out of stock. We know stock numbers, the year created and when prices were changed. We know which fashions belong to a Composition doll vs. a Mar-Fan era doll. We are the most fortunate of all collectors.

The Dealer Sell sheets were sent on a regular basis to entice stock replenishment and introduction of new items. They provided photos or "clip-art" for dealers advertising, descriptions, stock numbers and retail pricing.

Attached are 3 Dealer Sheets (6-pages) from 1954. We know that because of the stock numbers and crosschecking with the Monthly Magazines and Fashion Parades. Most of the pictures on these pages also appear in the 1954 Monthly Magazines. Terri Lee Sales Corp. did a marvelous job for us by making Little Mothers and Little Fathers aware of what was available to ask for AND by telling the Dealers what to stock up on. It was a nifty way to cycle the sales process. Terri had her own "Sears' Catalog" so to speak. Tell 'um what to order and have the dealer have it on hand for a quick sale. What a brilliant idea!

Alice in Wonderland

By Glenda Kitto

In 1956 we saw the major ad campaigns for Tiny Terri and her vast companion wardrobe. Several new matching TL and TTL sets were also introduced with one of them being the Alice in Wonderland costume. The Tiny Terri Alice outfit had a short run and was only shown in 1956 and 1957 in the Fashion Parade and three Monthly Booklets.

October 1956 above. December 1956 on right.
August 1957 below.

It was the following year that Terri got her portrait in the 1957 August Monthly Booklet on left in the page noted as Elegant Formals. Alice was presented as "From the Land of Make-Believe." The outfits have a white pinafore over blue Taffeta with embroidered tags. Rather than the traditional TL bows she wears a black velvet band in her hair just like Alice did when she went down the rabbit hole to Wonderland.

Very little is known about the Alice costume and seldom do you see it for sale. The blue taffeta often fades as you can see in the comparison photo below of the pair of Tiny Terri's. Both have been kept in their boxes yet one retains its soft blue while the other has faded from oxidation to an off white. The seam thread is blue insuring that the original color of the taffeta was blue.

Fortunately the TTL box has survived. Now to find big Terri's box.

If I were to rank this outfit as to rarity on a scale of 1-10, it would be right up there in the 9-10 range as to unusual and hard to find.

SWEETHEARTS

When it's Saint Patrick's Day I feel perfectly dressed in my Irish Party Dress with its tight bodice, full sleeves, ruffy skirt and straw hat. And isn't my Heart Fund Dress lovely? It's made of white organdy with red dots, with tiny white hearts on the wide red sash. The little heart bracelet which says "I Love You" completes the costume. Did you know that if you buy this outfit, part of the money is given to the Heart Fund Campaign to help children who are ill with rheumatic fever? I love to be able to help others, don't you? On the right I am wearing my new Alice in Wonderland costume, with its lovely full white pinafore over blue taffeta. And I wear a black velvet band on my hair just like Alice did when she went down the rabbit hole to Wonderland. Don't you love it? I do.

Garden Party

By Terry Bukowski

While going through my original pictures of Terri, most of which are in the Fashion Parades I came across this picture simply titled on the back "Garden Party".

The Terri pictured is of the 1950s vintage and looks lovely in this dress. Since we have never seen it never went into production. The last time a Garden Party dress was pictured was in the May 1954 Monthly Magazine, so could they have decided the above dress was too costly to make and settled on the last garden party dress we know?

The photo was haunting to me, I've seen it before just could remember where. When that happens it means it's time to reorganize the Terri Lee closet. And there was the dress in a Knickerbocker box. The box even had a copy of the photo glued to where the clothing description would be. While not the original from the 50's this dress is beautiful and would have been a nice addition to the 1956 Fashion Parade of outfits. Mary Hayden did a wonderful job creating the dress and packaging it for me.

The dress has three rows of velvet trim sewn around the organdy dress and ties at the waist. There is also an attached organdy slip. The reproduction has vintage flowers sewn on the bodice coping the original and in a clear box is a bouquet to wear on Terri's wrist, flowers with beautiful ribbons to match the dress.

Notice the picture in the far right hand corner of the box. Nice touch.

FLAT TERRI

By Dennis Ross

Portions of this story were adapted from Jeff Brown's "Flat Stanley"

A 4.0 magnitude earthquake rumbled through Apple Valley at 5:35 A.M. Luckily, no injuries or damages were reported...dishes rattled but most everyone actually slept through it.

Jerri awoke to the delicious smells of breakfast. What a jolt! But nothing was even broken. He would now wake up Terri and they would begin their day. As he looked over at Terri's bed, Jerri saw at once that something had happened.

The small wooden winter wardrobe had fallen on top of Terri while she was asleep. But Terri was not hurt. In fact, she had gone right on sleeping until she heard Jerri begin shouting. As Jerri lifted off the wardrobe, he yelled, "Gosh, Terri, you're flat as a pancake! Oh! Pancakes, yum. That reminds me...I'm starved! Let's eat breakfast and then we'll decide what to do."

Terri just shook her pretty newly flattened head at her brother. After they had eaten, Jerri took his sister to see nurse Tinkle. "How do you feel Terri?" nurse Tinkle asked. "Does it hurt very much?"

"I felt sort of tickly for a while," Terri flatly replied, "but I feel quite fine now."

"Well, that's mostly how it is with these sorts of cases," assured Nurse Tinkle.

Terri was still 16 inches tall, but about 3" wide and $\frac{1}{4}$ " of an inch thick. "I hope all my lovely clothes will still fit me," she worried aloud. Jerri said he was hungry again, so they stopped at the ice cream shop for a big banana split. When he was finished, Jerri's buttons on his white short sleeved shirt with red polka dots were bursting. So were the red snaps on his blue jeans. Terri's buttons were fine. She remained just as flat as ever. "Wow, a fashion model's dream comes true," she chuckled to her brother. "I can eat and eat and still stay very, very thin!"

As Terri got used to being flat, she began to enjoy it. She could go in and out of rooms, even when the door was closed. She'd just lie down and slide through the crack at the bottom.

Jerri got a bit jealous though, and tried to slide under a door too, but he just banged his head.

Being flat could also be a help, Terri found. One afternoon, she and Jerri were walking their pet poodle, Snobby, dressed in his chartreuse coat with Terri written in gold on it. His leash and collar became unfastened and the collar slid from Snobby's furry neck. It fell to the sidewalk and dropped between the metal bars of a sidewalk grating. Jerri didn't know quite what to do.

"I have an idea," Terri said. She took the laces out of her brown and white saddle shoes and also the shoelaces from Jerri's saddles. She tied them all together to make one long lace. She tied that to Snobby's leash, and then fastened the leash to the green belt of her Girl Scout uniform. She took off her scout hat and gave it to Snobby to obediently hold in his mouth. She handed the other end of the leash and assorted laces to her brother. "Lower me down," she said, "and I will look for Snobby's collar."

Jerri looked worried. "All right, but be careful," he finally mumbled. He lowered her between the bars and moved her up and down and from side to side.

Just then, two Apple Valley Sheriff's came by and stared at Jerri. "What's the matter, young man?" the first sheriff asked. "Is your yo-yo stuck?"

"I am not playing with a yo-yo!" Jerri answered. "My sister is at the other end of these shoelaces."

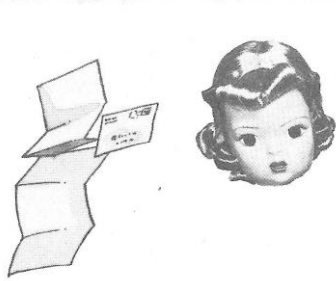

"Get the net George," replied the second sheriff. "We've just caught an Apple Valley cuckoo!"

Suddenly from the darkness below, Terri cried out...

"Hooray! Terri exclaimed. Jerri pulled her up. She was holding Snobby's red leather collar.

"Good for you, Terri." He said. Then Terri turned to the two sheriffs. "A good Girl Scout is always prepared!" she proudly boasted as she took her hat from Snobby and placed it on her head again. She barely noticed Jerri Mumbling. "Girl Scouts, Brownies, Campfire, Bluebirds - why does Terri get the fun of joining all those organizations and I can't be in Cub or Boy Scouts? She has four uniforms and I don't even have one!"

One morning, Terri received a letter from her friend Nanook (or Little White Bear) who lived in Alaska. Nanook wanted Terri to visit her. "Oh, great!" Terri said. "I would love to go!" But then after a moment's thought, she sighed. "A round-trip train or airplane ticket to Alaska costs lots of money," she said. "I will have to think of some cheaper way." Jerri didn't say a word, but knit his brows together in thought. It was clear to see he had the beginning of an idea.

Later that afternoon, Jerri brought home a very large brown paper envelope. "Now then, Terri," he said. "Try this on for size." The envelope fit Terri very well. There was even room left over for a salmon sandwich made with very thin bread, and a few Wheat Thin crackers.

They had to put a great many stamps on the front of the envelope, but it was still a lot cheaper than a train or airplane ticket to Alaska.

The next day, Jerri put Terri into her envelope. He mailed her at the postal box on the corner of their street. The envelope had to be folded to fit through the slot, but once she was inside the box, Terri straightened right up again. Jerri became a little worried about his sister all alone in the postal box. He tapped lightly on the box and said, "Terri, can you hear me? Are you all right?"

"Yes, I'm fine", Terri called back. "I can always eat my lunch if I'm kept waiting too long, good bye, Jerri."

Terri had such a grand time with Nanook. They wore red and blue snow suits, trimmed with white fur, and played for many fun-filled hours in the snow. Tall white boots with fur trim and fur mittens kept them snugly warm.

When the visit was finally over, Nanook sent Terri home in a beautiful snow white envelope which she had made herself. She wrote, "Fragile" and "This End Up" neatly on the envelope. Upon Terri's safe arrival home, her brother grumbled, "I never get to go anywhere exciting."

Feeling sorry for her brother, Terri took Jerri to the park one day. Many big boys were flying colorful large kites with long flapping tails. Jerri let out a long sigh. "Someday," he said, I will have a big kite and I will win a kite-flying contest and be famous like everyone else. I can't be in scouts... nobody cares about me...I never get to do anything fun..." Terri didn't say a word, but she was listening to every word her brother was saying. She went over to a boy whose kite was broken and borrowed some string.

"You can fly me, Jerri", she said. "Come on." She tied the string to herself and gave Jerri the other end to hold. He ran across the grass, sideways to get up speed, and then he turned to meet the wind.

UP, up, up ... UP, went Terri, being a kite!

Terri seemed to know just how to fly. She faced full into the wind if she wanted to go up, and let it take her from behind when she wanted to go fast. She only had to turn her very then edge to the wind, a little at a time, and then she would zoom down toward the earth again. Jerri let out all the string and Terri flew high above the trees. She was a gorgeous sight in her pink and white checked sleeveless blouse and solid pink pedal pushers with coordinated pink and white checked cuffs against the pale blue sky dotted with fluffy clouds.

Everyone in the park stood still to watch. Terri flew left and then right, in a long, long swoops. She zoomed to the ground like a rocket and turned up again toward the warm sun. She got really fancy and made circles and eights, crosses, a star, and even a heart! Nobody ever flew the way Terri Lee flew that day!

After a while, Jerri got tired of running about with the end of the string. Terri went right on though, flying magnificently for all to see. Jerri was hungry and when he caught sight of a hot dog stand, he tied the string to a tree and went to feed himself. He did not notice the wind was blowing the string and getting it all tangled up in the tree.

The string got shorter and shorter, but Terri did not know how low she was until green leaves touched her feet. Then it was too late!!!

Twenty minutes passed before Jerri heard her cries and climbed up to set her free.

That evening at bedtime, Jerri dressed in his yellow seersucker pajamas with blue bears pictured romping on the beach, blue robe with white lamb applique and bunny slippers with red lined ears, told his sister how sorry he was. Terri, comfortably attired in yellow cotton pajamas with a pattern of pink, green blue and white puppies romping with blocks and balls and a pink robe with white lamb applique, was still cross with her brother. Secretly she was glad she had on pink bunny slippers that she felt were much rarer than Jerri's! Jerri could not get to sleep. He knew Terri was still upset with him and that made him feel very sad indeed.

Suddenly a brilliant idea came to him! "Terri - Terri - are you asleep yet?" "No," said Terri in the darkness. Jerri jumped from his bed, flicked on the light and began rummaging through his toy box. Terri also got up to watch.

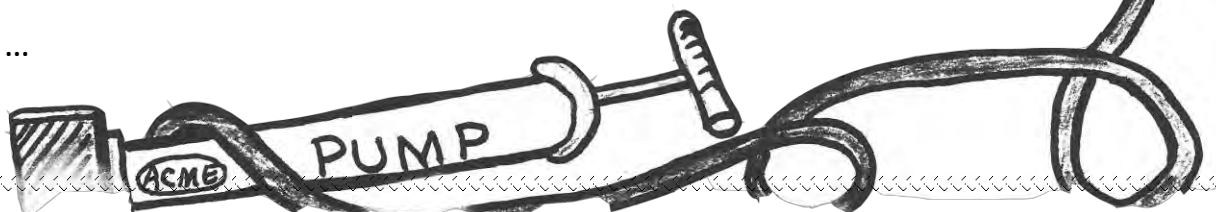

Jerri pushed aside toy after toy...Steiff giraffes and bears, G.I. Joes, Matchbox cars and Tonka trucks. "Aha!" he finally exclaimed. He held up what he had been searching so frantically for - a bicycle pump. He and Terri looked at each other. Terri knew exactly what her brother was thinking. "All right," Terri said. "Take it easy - be careful." She put the end of the long pump hose in her mouth and closed her pretty lips about it so that no air could get out.

"I'll go slowly," Jerri promised. "If it hurts or anything, wiggle your hand at me." He began to pump. At first, nothing happened except Terri's cheeks puffed out a bit. Jerri kept on pumping. Then suddenly, Terri's top half began to swell.

"Jerri, it's working, it really is!" shouted Terri. She spread her arms so that the air could get around inside of her. She got bigger and bigger. The square snap on her pajamas almost popped off. Within a minute she was all rounded out; Head and body, arms and legs. Well, not quite everything. Terri's left foot stayed flat.

Jerri stopped pumping. "I think it's like trying to blow up the very last bit of those very long balloons," he said. "Maybe a shake would help." Terri shook her left foot three times and with a little swooshing sound, it swelled out exactly matching her right one. There stood Terri Lee as she used to be, as if she had never, ever been flat at all! "Thank you Jerri," Terri said, "Thank you so very, very much."

THE END ...

Little Mother Sews A Ballerina Headband for Tiny Terri Lee

By Mary M Hayden

Tiny Terri Lee can't find her headband to her ballerina outfit. So let's make her a new one...

Supplies needed:

Small amount of Tulle fabric, a piece 1" wide by 22" long
Matching thread
Two small flowers

INSTRUCTIONS:

1. Sew a gathering stitch down the center of the Tulle fabric. You can do this by hand or on a sewing machine.
2. Pull the tread to make a gathered piece 4" long.
3. Tie or secure the ends of the gathered Tulle at each end.
4. Make or buy 2 little flowers to hand stitch at the end of the gathered tulle.
5. Your new headband is ready to put on your Tiny Terri Lee.

Vintage Ombre Millinery flowers:

You can find very nice ombre flower trim on Etsy or Ebay.

You can also buy vintage ribbon and make your own.

I think that might be one of my next projects.

Happy Sewing for Terri Lee and Family,

Mary
